

Commonwealth Broadcasting Award is calling for entries

The 2011 CBA Awards are now open to entries. There are 7 Awards, including two new Awards this year specifically for developing countries. These are the One World Media Award for the Best Programming produced in a Developing Country, and the World Bank Award for a Programme covering Development Success.

Entry is free to both members and non-members but each organisation can only enter a maximum of two entries per award. Television or Radio programmes produced, or broadcast, for the first time between 1st September 2009 and 31st August 2010 are eligible for entry. Each programme can only be considered in a single CBA award category.
